

“Arrive Alive”

Street Safety for the Traveling Nurse

It can..AND HAS...happened. A Home Healthcare Nurse has found herself in the center of a violent patient or family member. Now what? This exciting new program from Sorensen, Wilder & Associates allows your facility to:

- Understand workplace violence, anatomy and definition of violent crime
- Review workplace violence statistics and case studies of violence particular to healthcare
- Review potential hazards found on the street, parking areas, sidewalks and in the home and how to mitigate those hazards
- Learn the three elements of the Street Safety Continuum: Prevent, Prepare and Respond
- Learn and understand the Safety Action Plan and Threat Matrix and how it can keep the traveling healthcare worker safe at the workplace
- Understand the decision making process and psychology behind it. Refine decision making skills to increase the survivability likelihoods during an active hostile event
- Understand environmental hazards found in the workplace
- Remain safe and alive during an active hostile event!
